RE: Front End Developer

Dear Hiring Manager,

Upon learning about your search for a new frontend developer, I hastened to submit my resume. As an experienced and knowledgeable frontend developer with exceptional people skills, I am primed to significantly contribute to your organization from the get go.

Specifically, my background includes collaborating with and leading myriad teams. No matter the role, however, I consistently execute processes to fulfill all guidelines—achieving and surpassing organizational objectives. Whether I'm assisting tasks and/or training team members in future or coordinating meetings, I excel at improving team performance: being able to create a dynamic and fluent workflow to cope with stressful and demanding situations.

From a personal standpoint, I am quite adaptable, always open to change (both positive and negative), eager to learn and ready to face challenges in the workplace. Task-wise, I have expertise in problem solving, design implementation, and other skills. Proficiency in multitasking, communication and teamwork helps me address difficult situations or aggressive customers successfully. Beyond this, I can identify the strengths and weaknesses of a team and leverage those to make an impact for both the team and overall organization.

Above all else, the current MeaningFull Works opportunity has piqued my excitement as it would allow me to leverage my skill set to a T—providing value for customers and the company as a whole and taking root immediately upon hire. I would very much appreciate the chance to discuss how my background and strengths will directly translate to your unique environment. Please feel free to contact me via phone or email at your convenience.

Thank you for your consideration, and I look forward to speaking with you soon.

Sincerely,

Raoulex Nurse
